DOUGHBOY HAS A GRIEVANCE

Why in the World Don't Frenchmen Give Proper Pronunciation to Their Absurd Words?

Take the city of Troy, favorably known throughout the A. E. F. as a practically M. P. less burg, writes Tip Bliss in the American Legion Weekly. Naturally, any man being would pronounce it to rhyme with "noise," and go on his way rejoicing in the knowledge of a good deed well performed.

Not so the frisky prof. He calls it "Twa," though why and wherefore le bon Dieu alone knows.

But if you want to get even with the f. p., try him out with a regular word with plenty of "w's" and "h's" and "th's" in it. "Whether" is the cat's fur, as the army expression almost has it. Tackle him with "whether" and watch him gangle and stammer and sizzle and finally turn up his toes and pass away while somewhere in his insides are still resounding the last despairing notes of his infernal interpretation of a good, Christian word into "vay-sair-say."

"Vay-sair-re!" Shade of Babel! Now, as regards the matter of spelling. One of the Frenchman's pet monstrosities in "Kiss-a-say." Does he spell it that way? Oula answers, no. He goes to work and unburdens himself of vowels and sibilants and things until he has gotten rid of "Qu'est-ce que c'est?"

What does it mean? It means: "What is this that is?" Which is a fine healthy way of maltreating, "Hub!"

Hub is right.

DENMARK TO BE REPUBLIC?

According to Reports, the Little Country May Abandon the Monarchical Principle Soon.

News dispatches from Copenhagen state that there is a possibility of the establishment of a republic in Denmark, the little country that has been a monarchy since King Haafden ruled the country in 400 A. D.

Denmark is today a limited monarchy, ruled by King Christian, who divides his power with the two houses of parliament. During the war it suffered heavily in both its leading industries, dairying and the merchant marine.

Many Danish ships were sunk by U-boats despite their neutrality, and the large herds of cattle that had supplied a large part of Europe's butter and cream were killed for food.

Denmark has a population of 2,500,000, a large part of whom live on small farms. Its area is 14,829 square miles, slightly larger than the state of Maryland. It is densely populated, with 165 people to the square mile on the mainland and 275 to the square mile on the many islands along the coast. Copenhagen, the capital and principal seaport, is situated on the island of Zealand. The island folk form the merchant marine and the fisheries, while the farmers live on the fertile mainland.

Iceberg Was an Acrobat.

Not far from the spot where the Titanic was sunk by an iceberg in April, 1912, a fleet of 14 icebergs, some of them rising to more than 100 feet above the water line, were sighted by the steamship Munales on a recent voyage.

Captain Fleming of the Munales says that one of the bergs gave a remarkable exhibition of tumbling as the vessel sailed past. It had apparently lost a good deal of its under water weight through the action of the warm sea water, and as they watched it the great iceberg suddenly tipped to starboard and rolled over with an immense splash. As it fell, a big section of the top broke away, with the result that the balance was altered and the berg tumbled back again. Then, just as it was righting itself, another section broke off, and it tumbled once more. The sight was the most unusual one—Edinburgh Scotsman.

Thread in Manchuria.

Almost all of the $2,000,000 worth of cotton thread imported annually into Manchuria comes from Japan, partly because Japanese manufacturers have the advantage over possible competitors of government encouragement and support, and partly because there has been little competition from those sufficiently interested in this market to study its requirements as have the Japanese, says the New York Times.

Goods were placed with merchants on consignment until they became known, were extensively advertised, and are now sold on liberal credit basis, so that American manufacturers entering the market will not only have to compete on a quality basis, but should adopt similar methods of pushing their goods.

Twins of Ninety-Five.

Living in the Scotch village of Inverkip are twins, James and William Ford, ninety-five years old. Neither of them has had a day's illness, and James has never been a single night out of the house in which he was born.

Too Much of a Strain.

Jud Tunkins says he's never going to allow any summer boarder to remain for more than a week, because it's too much work to learn new stories to entertain the same old crowd.

WASHINGTONVILLE

Sept. 8—Albert Culler of this place, aged 26, was instantly killed and John Wilkinson, also of this place, aged 24, was seriously injured last week Thursday night when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by the Cleveland flyer at Mills crossing east of the Pennsy depot in Leetonia. They were returning home from a ball game in Salem. A freight train had been cut at the crossing and the young men did not observe the rapidly approaching express train. The auto was carried 40 feet and the occupants thrown out. Culler's neck was broken and his skull crushed. Wilkinson was taken to the Salem hospital and suffered with a broken hip and other minor injuries. Mr. Culler was an ex-service man, having been a member of Co. D, 348th machine gun battalion, and for some time had been employed in the Leetonia office of the Y. & O. Ry. Co. He is survived by his mother and two sisters and two brothers. Funeral services held Sunday afternoon from the Culler home were largely attended. Interment was made in Oakland cemetery.

David Summerville, for 35 years a resident of this village, died last Friday morning at the age of 60. He was born in Scotland and came to America with his parents when nine years old. He was a member of the Knights of Pythias and a miner by occupation. His wife and two brothers survive. Funeral services Sunday afternoon from the Culler home were largely attended.
